Law enforcement agencies are being asked to do much more with much less – while being pushed and pulled on all sides.

In the absence of external support, it's more important than ever to equip agencies with the tools and support they need internally.

The use of intelligent scheduling means agencies know with confidence they have the right number of people at the right place, at the right time.

24/7/365 scheduling is complex under the best of circumstances. The challenge extends far beyond the balancing act of overstaffing or understaffing – it's also paramount to accurately place the right personnel with the correct qualifications and skillsets during every single shift.

The opportunity for human error is considerable, and the cost of mistakes can be expensive.

Too many police departments are still using spreadsheets and calendars to track their personnel's duty roster, overtime, time-off requests, shift trades, training, shift bids, special assignments, and more.

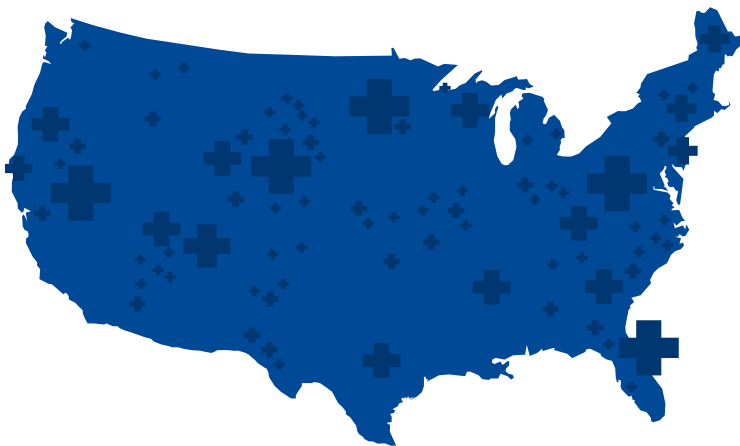

Antiquated and cumbersome manual scheduling processes waste time and money – something public safety agencies never have enough of – while also opening the door to the risks and liabilities of fatigue, and negatively impacting the performance of the police department.

Schedule Express reduces risks, costs, complexities, and errors of scheduling the workforce through automation intelligence of an agency's specific scheduling policies, procedures, rules, regulations, collective bargaining agreements, and memorandums of understanding.

Schedule Express ensures compliance, increased efficiencies and effectiveness – generating a proven and powerful ROI.

"We have used Schedule Express approximately eight years," said Mike Wallace of the Weld County Sheriff's Office. "The payback in efficiency and overtime cost is astonishing, to the sum of over two full-time head count annually in comparison to managing our previous scheduling practices."
