

Avalara License Management for Enterprises and Rapidly Growing Businesses

A Business License Superstation

Avalara License Management enables businesses to streamline their sprawling business license portfolios into one secure database, maintain it with workflow tools tailored to their needs, connect everybody from senior management to remote staff in one collaborative environment, help ensure their ongoing compliance with a dynamic calendar, and free up the time they spend on repetitive tasks.

A Central and Secure Work Environment

Avalara License Management organizes your company's business licenses, location and entity details, and other pertinent data in a central database (backed up by Type 2 SOC 2 certification) where they are accessible online. In fact, you can centralize many disparate pieces of governmental compliance, such as permits, tax registrations, workforce certifications, vehicles, contracts, leases, and violations. This approach streamlines business license management and helps prepare you for rapid growth and the unexpected departure of key personnel.

A Workflow Tailored for You

Every company is unique and so too is every business license portfolio. Your use case may involve constantly creating and dissolving legal entities (or it may not). Your departmental rules may demand notarization or controller approval (or they may not). You may want to bind many license renewals together for faster processing (or you may not).

This is why Avalara License Management incorporates easy-to-modify workflow steps, customizable data fields, and optional batching. These features allow the system to adapt to the requirements of your portfolio and not vice versa.

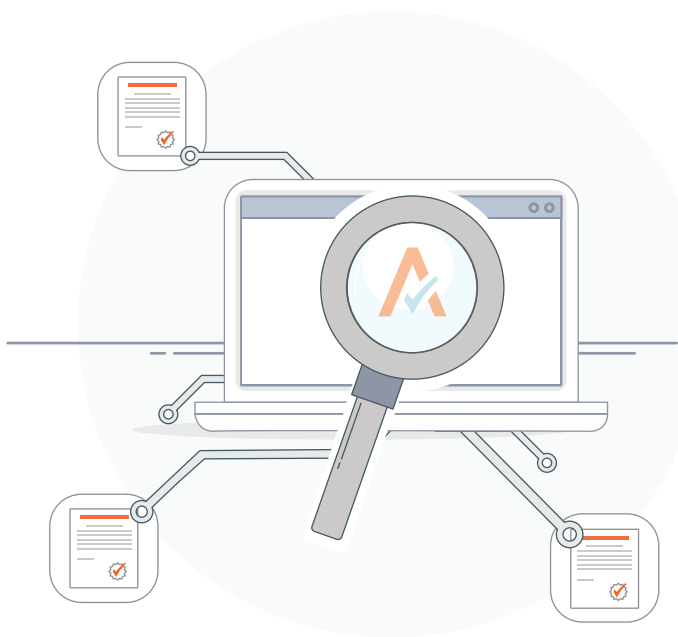

"As long as I put in the right data, I know I can run an accurate report. It has cut my research time in half, to be honest." - Sarah Parente at LAZ Parking

A Collaborative Platform for Everyone

With Avalara License Management, your colleagues can maintain their own licenses while management monitors from their own dashboard (while you define the user roles). It's not just your team that benefits though. In this era of complex business structures, compliance often depends upon cooperation with other departments, remote personnel, and even separate entities.

Avalara License Management fosters precisely this type of collaboration. For instance, you can trigger a legal review while obtaining a license or empower counsel to track annual state entity filings. You can use the check request module to process granular information about pending payments to authorities or even follow prompts to prepare timely check requests to Accounts Payable and display them for easy reconciliation.

A Proactive Calendar and Alert System

Avalara License Management converts your business license portfolio into a calendar that helps you manage deadlines. With alerts automatically sent to key stakeholders, you can worry less about critical tasks getting overlooked in spreadsheets and hard copies. You may even use the system to inspect your workforce to find lapses in their certifications and independently manage the timely renewal of their credentials. This proactive approach to business license compliance is invaluable to companies that have seen their business license portfolio expand to critical mass.

A Workable Compliance Burden

With the ability to research business license requirements directly in the software and associate your licenses to a vast repository of data, you no longer have to manually collect information necessary to renew a license. Avalara License Management will also do the hard work and feed you handy data when needed.

You can start looking at your portfolio as a clean roster of jurisdictions rather than a messy pile of business license paperwork. Avalara License Management reduces the time you spend on repetitive tasks and lets you focus on your company's other essential needs.
