CULTIVATING GENIUS

By Dr. Gholdy Muhammad

This book practical approaches to cultivate the genius in students and within teachers through a four-layered equity framework grounded in history. The framework is essential and universal for all students, especially youth of color who traditionally have been marginalized in learning standards, school policies, and classroom practices. A great team-read!

TEACHING COMMUNITY

By Bell Hooks

A close look at the link between community and education and all of the places that teaching can happen. This book is a collection of essays which makes it a great book to take to a coffee shop and contemplate.

EDUCATED

By Tara Westover

A memoir of a woman with an untraditional upbringing, who enters formal education at the age of 17. A great story on how far an education can take us. Great pick for a book club!

OUTLIERS

By Malcolm Gladwell

If you have ever asked yourself, "what makes high-achievers different?" then this is a great book for you. Fascinating glimpses into the importance of ones upbringing.

THE BODY KEEPS THE SCORE

CULTURALLY RESPONSIVE TEACHING & THE BRAIN

By Zaretta Hammond

Using neuroscience research, the author offers an innovative approach for designing and implementing brain compatible culturally responsive instruction.

GOOD TO GREAT TO INNOVATE

By Lyn D. Sharratt & Gale Harild

Written for education leaders at all levels, read about how outstanding schools on five continents address career readiness, and how your program can best prepare students for a successful future.

WEAPONS OF MATH DESTRUCTION

By Cathy O'Neil

Decisions that affect our lives--where we go to school, whether we can get a job or a loan, how much we pay for health insurance--are being made not by humans, but by machines. In theory, this should lead to greater fairness: Everyone is judged according to the same rules. Mathematician and data scientist, Cathy O'Neil reveals the mathematical models being used today are unregulated and uncontestable, even when they're wrong.
